Chris,

Because the file was so large, the requester was given a hard-copy version, which included all the redactions identified and the withheld material subject to the CBI claim.

Thanks,
Mike

Mike,

I find it to be a fantastic tool! For some reason, I was having trouble finding this particular request when I initially searched (undoubtedly user error), but it is now showing up. Quick question though: It was my understanding from our conversation on Monday that the fully-redacted RFP (minus the diagrams) has been released. However, on the FOIA Online listing, I am only seeing the redacted pages of the RFP. Was the full RFP released directly to the requester? Or, is it just listed under a different name that I am not seeing?

Thanks,
Chris

Mike,

Thank you for sending the pages with the redacted information. I meant to ask you in my previous email, but we also request a copy of the Conservation Law Foundation's FOIA request. Is that something that you can provide?

Best,

Chris

Chris,

The attached PDF contains all of the pages with redacted information from the FRP. Of course we also withheld the site diagrams identified in our CBI substantiation letter in total. No other information was redacted or withheld.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,
Mike

Chris,

I will need to talk with my client who processed this FOIA request. It may be easiest for us to simply identify redactions made with page citations.

The FOIA requester is the Conservation Law Foundation.

In the meantime, please let me know if you have any further questions about the CBI substantiation process.

Thank you,
Mike

Subject: FOIA Request re: ExxonMobil Terminal in Everett, MA

Mike,

Thank you for taking the time to speak to me today about the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request regarding ExxonMobil's terminal in Everett, MA. Based on our conversation, it is my understanding that EPA has already released a redacted version of the terminal's facility response plan (FRP) with the exception of the site diagrams at pages 80-98 of the FRP and pages 5-23 of Appendix G to the FRP. Accordingly, we request a copy of the redacted version of the FRP that was released to the public so that we can appropriately respond to any sensitive security information that is now in the public domain. If the document is over 10 MB and you would like to send it electronically, I would be happy to set up a Citrix ShareFile portal to which you can upload it.

Additionally, we request the identity of the requester of this information.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Best regards,
